Continuation of 11. does NOT place the application in condition for allowance because: Applicants argue that the combination of references do not teach a scheduled chamber maintenance. In response, the combination of references (specifically Xi et al.) teach chamber cleaning that is controlled by a central controller, which controls gas composition and flow rates (as outlined in the previous office action). Since a sequencer subroutine is utilized that determines the present condition of the process chamber and a gas control subroutine that monitors gas flow rates for specified conditions, it would have been within the level of ordinary skill in the art to correlate a predetermined gas volume with chamber maintenance. In response to Applicants' argument that the Examiner's conclusion of obviousness is based upon improper hindsight reasoning, it must be recognized that any judgment on obviousness is in a sense necessarily a reconstruction based upon knowledge which was within the level of ordinary skill at the time the claimed invention was made, and does not include knowledge gleaned only from the applicants' disclosure, such a reconstruction is proper. Consult In re McLaughlin, 443 F.2d 1392; 170 USPQ 209 (CCPA 1971). Furthermore, Applicants' argument relies on the amendment, which is not entered. .
